DEATH TOLL IN WASHINGTON THEATRE DISASTER NOW 108; OTHERS MAY BE IN WRECKAGE

Full Extent of Loss of Life
Will Not Be Known for 24 Hours.

INVESTIGATION BEGUN

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The death toll from the Knickerbocker Theatre disaster of Saturday night was brought to 108 today with the death of a resident of Washington. The body of Charles Keller, U. S. A. engineer, was found in the wreckage of the theatre at the military way to civilian forces. Marines brought to the theatre a few hours after the crash Saturday night were withdrawn before dawn and soldiers from Fort Meyer who struggled through miles of snow Saturday night to reach the scene began leaving. All dead and injured had been removed today from the Christian Science Church, a large structure which for more than 36 hours had served as a clearing house for victims.

Edward H. Shaughnessy of Chicago, second assistant postmaster general, who with his wife and two children, was injured in the crash was described today as in a serious condition, with only a slight chance of recovery.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—With a total of 107 dead and 133 injured removed from the ruins of the Knickerbocker motion picture theatre up to an early hour today the rescuers were still struggling with the heavy wreckage left when the snow-laden roof of the structure collapsed during the showing of a comedy feature last Saturday night.

Brigadier General Baadshuis, commander of federal troops in the district, in personal charge of rescue work, said it might be another 24 hours before it could be definitely said there were no more dead or injured in the wreckage of twisted steel and splintered wood. He said that he had learned away of the mass that was piled down without warning on the pursuers seeking hundreds below.

It was believed, however, that the section now being explored would yield few additions to the list of dead and injured, it being near the rear and under the part of the balcony which held up when the roof of it crashed down to the floor.

A party of rescuers early today had been struggling for hours to release from the pile of the wreckage now being overturned one man believed to be alive although imprisoned for nearly 36 hours. The great weight of the steel beams and concrete in many instances made the rescue of victims painfully slow and tedious.

A three-fold investigation of the cause and circumstances was in progress today. Initiated by the board of commerce and another to be started by the grand jury, Senator C. C. of Kansas, a member of the Senate District of Columbia Committee, announced that as soon as the Senate convened he would introduce a resolution calling for an investigation of the tragedy.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—There has been no time as yet for official inquiry as to the cause of the disaster to the Knickerbocker Theatre Saturday night. The ruins themselves disclose, however, that the entire mass of steel which held the structure that formed the roof had come down. The crash swept the supports out from under the balcony, apparently, and it hung down at an angle of 45 degrees, adding to the tangled mass of wreckage on the floor below.

The building stands in an acute angled corner of Eighteenth street and Columbia road, northwest, the heart of the most favored residential section of the city. The narrow alley of the stage on which the screen was hung was backed into the corner angle, while to the left from the stage the line of the auditorium wall runs in a straight line for some 200 feet down Eighteenth street. To the right the wall follows the slow curve of Columbia road for about the same distance and at the far end, paralleling the stage front, the back wall completes the auditorium proper, all to about 200 feet long.

This whole space stood roofless to be sky a moment after the first hiss of sound of the breaking roof gave warning above the music of the orchestra. There is only one survivor thus far who has told of having heard that warning and seen the first powerful handful of snow sift down over the head of the orchestra leader. It came to make his escape. He was W. L. Morris, a 38-year-old retired coal mine manager of Duckhamton, W. Va. He said he heard a crack, a sort of ripping sound, exactly like that when the slate roof of a coal mine makes when it is going to let go. From his seat, well forward on the main floor, he raced for the doors at the back. A great blast of air, expelled as the roof came down, hurled him out through the doorway to safety.

Most of the bodies were recovered from the floor of the pit beneath the wreckage of the balcony, or from the front of the balcony itself. Following the rule of motion picture audiences and with an almost empty house to pick from, those on the main floor had grouped themselves in the rows of seats just below the front of the balcony. They were back far enough to see well and the front and back rows were almost empty.

At the point they had chosen, the danger proved to be just double. Few of those seated there could have escaped. Even if the falling concrete slabs and steel work of the roof missed them, the solid mass of the balcony front came down on the first wreckage with crushing weight. The gleaming brass rail that adorned the balcony front lay spread over the wreckage of the roof, 15 feet below, when rescuers reached the scene.

Those further back on the main floor probably all escaped. The beams that supported the back end of the balcony did not let go their clutch on the wall. The wide sweep of the seats, they supported took the weight of the front and then stood covering the back rows of the main floor like a tent.

The front rows of the balcony were ground to a twisted mass of ruin in the fall. There was no wood in the structure. It was all steel and concrete, but the enormous weight of the balcony was itself sufficient to wind the twisted beams into fantastic shapes.

Louis W. Strayer, Pittsburgh Writer, Among the Dead

By Associated Press.
PITTSBURGH, Jan. 30.—Pittsburgh's toll in the Washington theatre disaster stood today at three dead and one injured. Two of the dead were well-known here and prominent, at one time in the affairs of this city.

Former Congressman Dr. Andrew Jackson Barchfield, formerly of the Southside, was killed, instantly it is believed.

Louis W. Strayer, a correspondent for the Pittsburgh Dispatch, was in the pit of the theatre when the roof collapsed. He was probably instantly killed.

Mrs. Elmer A. Barchfield of 3837 Brownsville road, wife of Attorney Barchfield of this city, died at 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning in the Emergency Hospital, Washington.

Miss Martha Strayer, daughter of L. W. Strayer, was seriously cut about the face and arms. Her collar bone was broken. She will recover.

Mrs. Barchfield had been visiting her father-in-law, Dr. Barchfield, during the past week. The former congressman had made his home in Washington since retiring from Congress.

Hugh Nesbitt, 15 years old, son of Hugh Nesbitt, a former Pennsylvania, was seriously injured. The elder Nesbitt, correspondent for the Kansas City Star, was reported injured, but it was later found that he was not at the theatre.

Storm Enveloping National Capital Moving Seaward

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The center of the storm which flung a deep blanket of snow over the entire Middle Atlantic section of the country Friday and Saturday, Washington was still digging itself out of more than two feet of it today, with the process of returning to normal exceedingly slow.

But in common with the rest of the section which suffered most from the wintry visitor, which this time came from the south, the Capital had the assurance of the Weather Bureau that the storm was moving seaward today.

LEGION TOTAL 225; DRIVE TO GO ON 10 DAYS

Team Captains Plan to Put on
"More Steam" to Reach 500.

Milton L. Bishop Post, The American Legion, has secured 225 members in its campaign which opened last Monday. Not satisfied with this total, the period of the canvass for members will be extended for 10 days more. During this period reports will be made every third evening and by the end of that time it is expected the goal will be reached.

The increase in the thermometer, which indicates how the drive is progressing, is just below the half way mark. "More steam will be turned on" in the extended period of the drive and it is felt the top will be reached.

With 225 names already in there are a few teams which have not made complete reports. Those hold-outs, it is believed, would greatly swell the number.

As all reports are not complete it is still impossible to tell which teams are leading. The four leading aggregations are in brackets: the six winning combinations and this done, keeping up a distinct rivalry.

Joseph S. Reed, captain of Team No. 5, is doing some good work with his booth in Crawford avenue and his requests for membership have not been approached by a canvasser to stop there.

The reports of the teams Saturday night were: Team No. 1, Herbert Shank, captain; Team No. 2, James Ryland, captain; Team No. 3, Ray McClintock, captain; Team No. 4, none reported; Team No. 5, Joseph S. Reed, captain; Team No. 6, Mr. Wardlaw, captain; Team No. 7, P. R. Sheris, captain; Team No. 8, Charles Carson, captain; Team No. 9, C. A. McCormick, captain; Team No. 10, George Perry, captain.

Disabled Wireless Delays Sending News Of Explorer's Death

By Associated Press.
EL PASO, TEXAS, Jan. 30.—More than three weeks elapsed between the death of Sir Ernest Shackleton, the British explorer, and its announcement to the world, made yesterday when the body arrived at Montevideo. The delay, La Nación, Montevideo correspondent telegraphed, was ascribed by Captain L. Huxley, who accompanied the body, as due to a series of wireless mishaps.

Sir Ernest died aboard the steamship Quest on which he was making another Antarctic voyage while anchored off South Georgia Island on January 5. The body was taken to Montevideo on the first leg of the trip home aboard the Norwegian steamer Prof. Cuvier. When asked why the Quest did not inform the Falkland Islands of her minor wireless set, Captain Huxley said it was not sufficiently powerful. The wireless of the Prof. Cuvier was also out of order, he declared.

INSTITUTE, BEST THAT HAS BEEN HELD HERE, ENDS

Satisfaction Expressed on All Sides.
At Excellence of Instruction Given Teachers and Public.
Teachers and superintendents alike expressed the greatest degree of satisfaction with the third annual combined teachers' institute of the Connellsville and Dunbar Township schools which closed Saturday a forenoon.

Subjects of many and various natures were dwelt on during the course of the three-day gathering all of vital interest to both parents and teachers. All pointed more or less to greater efficiency for the teacher and a better education for the student.

Indifference of a people to civic needs was characterized as the most threatening obstacle in the path of a successful democracy by Dr. Smith, Bureau head of the department of history and social science of the Western State Normal School at Kalama, Mich., in his address on "Education and Democracy," the closing topic of Saturday afternoon's session.

Turning to civic indifference he declared every voter should exercise the franchise. Declaring it was true, politics is "controlled," Dr. Bingham said it would not be so if every voter did his duty and went to the polls.

Dr. E. E. Sparks continued his talk "Confessions of a School Master," which he had begun on the day previous. He pictured the lack of education and its results. He also urged the teacher to seek the motive for the child's transgressions. "The idea and gentle art of teaching," he said, "is the greatest of any teacher's asset."

Dr. E. B. Bryan also gave a talk during the afternoon.

The speaking of the afternoon was interrupted by a musical drill, a play by Robert J. McDowell of Pittsburg and vocal and piano selections by Will A. Rhodes, of Pittsburg, and Carl P. Anstine, resident instructor at the high school.

Receivers from Grip.
Miss Marjorie Hays of Dunbar, who has been ill at her home there, is recovering from an attack of grip.

Remedying Conditions on South Arch Street Should be Urged Upon Council, Says Citizen

A citizen very much interested in bettering the conditions of the city, by a petition of the improvement of South Arch street, has suggested that the matter be brought to the attention of the City Council by action of part of the residents and property owners along that thoroughfare. In a communication to The Courier this citizen says:

The improving of Spokane street brings up the necessity of improving one of the city's most needed arteries of traffic, South Arch street, from Crawford avenue to Green street.

For years this thoroughfare has been in an impassable condition, a source of annoyance, inconvenience and a disgrace to the residents, citizens and public generally. It will con-

Miss Belle Bowden, Well-Known Teacher, Dies of Pneumonia

She was taken ill suddenly but hopes for her recovery were entertained until Sunday. She attended the opening session last Thursday morning of the Connellsville-Dunbar Township teachers' institute here.

Miss Bowden was a daughter of William Bowden, who died in 1916, and Mrs. Margaret Bowden, whose death occurred two years later.

She had spent the greater part of her life at Dunbar and was one of the best known women of that vicinity. She was graduated from the Dunbar school and was the first member of her class to die. ## Many of Them, Senator Frelinghuysen Declares in Support of Movement.

RESOLUTION IN SENATE

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—Investigation of the Knickerbocker Theatre disaster by a Senate committee is proposed in a resolution introduced today, by Senator Capper, Republican, Kansas, a member of the Senate District of Columbia Committee.

Under the rule the resolution was referred to the audit committee.

Supporting the resolution, Senator Frelinghuysen, Republican, New Jersey, said the investigation should be a wide-spread one of the entire district government, adding that he knew that many buildings in Washington were "fire traps" which might at any time cost scores of lives.

"I think the time has come when some committee of Congress should be appointed to inquire into the whole subject of the enforcement of laws in the District of Columbia," Senator Frelinghuysen declared. "For one thing there is a laxity of traffic laws and their administration. Also there is no method whereby those driving automobiles are examined as to their qualifications for driving. Proportionately there are twice as many traffic accidents here as in other cities. It is time Congress paid some attention to the matter to the end that lives of residents here could be protected."

It was stated that the audit committee planned to act today on the Capper resolution which declared "the explanation that show, although of an extraordinary quantity, was the chief cause of the collapse of the roof appeared to be unsatisfactory."

MOTHER!

Your Child's Bowels Need "California Fig Syrup"

Hurry, mother! Even a sick child loves the "fruitful" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Advertisement

MRS. ISABELLE A. WEST. Mrs. Isabelle A. West, 75 years old, widow of Lutellus I. West, died Saturday night at 10 o'clock at the home of her brother, G. C. Armstrong, 204 East Crawford avenue, with whom she had made her home since the death of her husband. She had been in poor health for several years past and since the death of Mr. West, which occurred November 18, 1928, her condition gradually became more serious. Mrs. West was born in Scotland May 10, 1846, a daughter of the late Adam and Isabella Armstrong. She came to this country with her parents when she was but three years old. The family settled in Connelville, where Mrs. West continued to reside until death. She was one of the most widely known women of Connelville and was respected and esteemed by her host of friends. She was a life-long member of the First Presbyterian Church and was a prominent member and active worker in the organizations of the church. Her marriage to Mr. West, who was one of the best known citizens of Connelville, took place here, Mrs. West is survived by two brothers, G. C. Armstrong and J. A. The floral tributes were numerous and unusually handsome. W. J. Hicks of this city, James S. Hicks of Washington, D. C., D. J. Hicks, Frank C. Hicks and Edgar M. Mr. O'Brien was born in England, a son of William and Margaret O'Brien, and had been a resident of this community for about 30 years. For 19 years he resided at Wheeler, moving from there to Connelville. He served on the police force for a number of years and was a member of the Connelville Fire Company. He was married to Mary Elizabeth Jarman, who, with the following children survive: Peter, of the West Side; Mary, Katherine, Dora, Margaret, Elizabeth, Ruth and Josephine O'Brien, all at home. ## At the Theatres

THE SOLESON.

"A TRIP TO PARADISE."—With Mr. Lytell in the stellar role, opened today for a three-day attraction at this theatre. "A Trip to Paradise" is a new adaptation of a Hungarian story by Franz Molnar. The American version was written by Benjamin Glazer, who also adapted "The Master" for Arnold Daly's use on the stage and "The Name Is Woman" in which Mary Nash appeared. The local copy of "A Trip to Paradise" has been changed from Hungary to Coney Island, where the leading character, Curley Flynn, played by Mr. Lytell, is the Barker in a sideshow called "A Trip to Paradise." It is the story of a man's regeneration through the love of a woman and the influence of a dream. The cast supporting Mr. Lytell includes Virginia Vail, as Curley's wife; Uncle Vin Moore, as the Coney Island roller coaster woman who loses Curley's love and causes Curley to lose his job; Brinsley Shaw, as Meek, the criminal who leads Curley into a safe-cracking job in which Curley gets shot; and Victory Bateman, as Mrs. Smiley, the nagging old woman at the house where Curley rooms.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"PLAYING WITH FIRE."—Gladys Walton's latest picture, is the chief attraction today and tomorrow at this theatre. Her golden tresses are ratted and done high on her head. Her pink ears are loaded with heavy half moon jet earrings. High French heels and pointed toes are the conspicuous features of her footwear, which squeeze dainty little feet into dainty space. She wears thin gorging blouses and cheap but snappy serge skirts for business, while in the evening she blossoms forth in lace or check-silk hose, fancy, frilly and abbreviated dresses, half a ten cent store or her fingers and ears, and enough gum to run till midnight. That's the sort of a girl the heroine of "Playing With Fire" is until the right man comes along. Gladys Walton's stellar characterization of the queen of a Me-at-then will be a delight to the audience at this theatre. The heroine is a woman with a man with a "class." The result is distinctly a business blow to the ten cent store, and the corner grocery and candy stand. And the Melody Song queen becomes addicted to plain hose and elegant

"CAP" STORIES.

IT'S ALL A LOT OF NONSENSE!

By EDWINA.

THE ORPHEUM.

"THE PRIMAL LAW."—The feature picture today, Tuesday and Wednesday, presents Dustin Farnum in the leading role. Being Wayne, a fine type of the strong and fearless Westerner, ranchman, horseman and crack shot, for the protection of the bar's interand little Bobbie Carson, aged seven, are pals. There are delightful scenes between the two before trouble begins with the arrival of one Travers in Morgan City and his attempts to force ranchers in the region into selling their holdings at ridiculously low prices. Travers enlists the aid of "bad men" and fighting resists—Wayne taking the lead in the defense, more for the protection of the bar's interest than his own. The arrival of a pretty Eastern girl on the scene gives a new interest to the lives of the man and the boy. It is a mighty entertaining story, and will be remembered with pleasure by all who see it. The star is supported by charming Mary Thorman, Harry Hutchinson, Philo McCallough, Frank Lee and Mary Marshall. The production was directed by Bernard Doolin.

TIME WAITS FOR NO ONE

It is too late to say in the years to come. Why didn't we have baby's picture made when he was one year old or why haven't we Mary's picture showing us how she looked in her first school year, and Sonny certainly will blame you if he hasn't a picture showing how he looked when he wore his first long trousers.

Time waits for no one. Today, now is the time to arrange for this year's portraits.
